FREIGHT BUSINESS IN PAST YEAR SHOWS CITY'S PROSPERITY

More Than Half Million in Trade at Local Office of Union Pacific System

UPWARDS of a half million dollars' worth of freight business was done by the Glendale station of the Union Pacific road during 1922 at its office, corner Glendale avenue and California street.

This was the announcement made today by A. J. Vail, agent, who has an assistant to handle the large incoming shipments of lumber, cement, plaster, steel pipe and less than car lot commodities.

At the present time twenty cars of lumber are being unloaded for the new Glendale Union High school plant. It is shipped direct from harbor yards over the old Salt Lake lines into Glendale, as is much of the material.

An average of 125 carloads incoming freight is received monthly, making a yearly total of about 1500 cars, according to Mr. Vail. This is the principal business done by the Union Pacific offices here, although C. A. Redmond, district passenger agent and a resident of this city, does well more than his share of railroad and steamship tickets.

Mr. Vail says his figures show approximately a twenty per cent gain the first month in 1923 over January, 1922, which compensates the loss of citrus shipments from Glendale. So far this year only (Continued on Page 2)

Summon Police and Fire Departments! Teddy Is Missing!

TEDDY, one of the mascots of Fire Station No. 1, is lost, strayed or stolen. Gloom pervades the dormitory today as a result of the absence of Teddy, whose appetite amused all members of the fire department.

Teddy is a white bird dog, with black spots. There is a small patch of brown over his eyes. The tail, which he wags, is stub.

According to Fireman George Meyer, Teddy is a very intelligent mascot, and knows a lot of tricks—such as how to bury bones in the cement floor and how to slide down the greased pole. He did not say that the dog did these things, but intimated that he knew how. He admitted, however, that the best thing Teddy does is eat.

Blizzard in Portland
PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 13.—A driving blizzard, bringing the lowest temperature of the winter season, is sweeping over Portland and surrounding territory today.

The thermometer registered 17½ degrees early this morning, after a drop of nine degrees in two hours. The previous low record of the season was 18 degrees.

The city is blanketed with a mantle of snow—three inches deep. There is no immediate sign of a let up.

Nine feet of snow at Bull Run lake, located sixty miles east of here, has been reported. Logging camps in Oregon and eastern Washington are closed due to heavy snows of the past two days.

Accuses Detective of Bomb Warning Fake

Meyers, a Burns detective agency departmental manager, Albert Balanow, admitted spy and double crosser, testified here today in a deposition to be used in the defense of 23 alleged "reds." ### INVADERS ASSUME FULL CONTROL OF RAILWAY LINES

Take Over Traffic Systems By Installing Own Men In Charge of Trains

By FRANK E. MASON
For International News Service
PARIS, Feb. 13.—The Franco-Belgian commission today took over complete control of the Ruhr and Rhineland railways to insure delivery today, said a dispatch to L'Intransigent. The German railway workers were discharged.

The trains will be manned and guarded by French and Belgian soldiers. A German hostage will be placed in each locomotive as a safeguard against sabotage by the Germans.

Definite intimation that the French and Belgians are taking steps to detach the occupied Rhineland from Germany to be created into a separate state was contained in a Dusseldorf dispatch to the Petit Journal today.

"After more than a month's experience the conviction has grown that it is difficult, if not impossible with the means at our disposal to exploit the Ruhr and make profits," said the Dusseldorf telegram. "We have a new program. We are no longer interested in what takes place in the interior of the Ruhr. We are interested in the detaching this rich region from Germany. We cannot use the Ruhr, but Germany will no longer possess it."

"We are more interested in encircling the Ruhr than in occupying it. It seems impossible to us to administer this big region. We would require three times the number of bayonets (soldiers) we have now."

The Petit Journal is owned by Louis Locheur, government expert on reparations and former French minister of liberated regions.

France and Belgium are now thoroughly in accord upon future measures to be taken regarding the Rhineland. For the time being the French and Belgians are straining every nerve to increase the production and movement of coal from the Ruhr.

MARRIED IN 1867, COUPLE CELEBRATE

Mr. and Mrs. John Spensley And Family Gather at Anniversary Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. John Spensley, of 1016 East Maple street, celebrated their golden wedding February 7, 1917. And last Wednesday, at the above address, they celebrated the fifty-sixth anniversary of that romantic seventh of February, back in 1867—just two years after the termination of the great Civil war.

It was in Wisconsin that the marriage took place, but Iowa has been the home of the couple for most of their years together, until 1920, when they came to California, and to Glendale.

It was a most enjoyable evening, last Wednesday, at the home of the Spensleys. Their two daughters, Miss Maud Spensley and Mrs. J. E. Storey, of Glendale, were there, together with the husband of the latter, Prof. Storey, and Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Davis of Glendale. Dinner was served at a table tastefully decorated, the outstanding feature of which was a resplendent wedding cake. The decorations of the room were carried out in pink and white.

Plans to Reorganize U. S. Departments

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Plans for reorganization of the government departments, including the consolidation of the war and navy department and the establishment of a department of public welfare, will be presented by President Harding to the congressional reorganization committee within the next few days, it was learned officially at the White House this afternoon. The committee will in turn transmit the plans to congress for approval.

PRESIDENT AGAIN ENTERS FIGHT ON SUBSIDY BILL

Harding Calls Leaders to White House Conference And Urges Action

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
For International News Service
WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—For the second time within a week, President Harding today entered the senatorial fight for enactment of the administration's ship subsidy bill to renew his appeal for a decisive vote.

Summoning Senators Lodge, Republican, Massachusetts, and Watson, Republican, Indiana, to a conference at the White House, the president repeated the appeal for a decision which he personally delivered to congress in his message a week ago.

The president told the senate leaders to wage a "smashing fight" in behalf of the measure with the sole view of determining whether the bill can be enacted into law.

The president agreed to side-track the subsidy temporarily while the British debt agreement is being ratified in the senate. He urged Republican leaders to keep the debt agreement continuously before the senate until it was passed and to permit no other legislation to intervene.

The debt agreement was called up today by Senator Smoot, Republican, of Utah. Leaders on both sides indicated it would be ratified in two or three days. Consideration of the subsidy then will be resumed.

Wants Real Fight
"The president wants a smashing fight staged in behalf of the bill," said Senator Watson. "He wants a show-down on the subsidy but he wants more vigorous efforts adopted so its opponents will know they have been in a fight."

Consideration of the bill took place first during the senate's "morning hour," ending at 1 p. m.

Senator McCumber then made a formal motion to displace the ship subsidy with the debt agreement and his proposal was approved by a vive voce vote.

C. C. Cooper Discovers All Kinds of Climate

C. C. Cooper of 300 North Central avenue found fifty-seven varieties of climate in Glendale Sunday.

Hiking to the top of Mt. Verdugo looks simple and many have done the trick, but it was a new experience for Mr. Cooper.

When he left Louise street at the foot of the mountain for the long climb the sun was peaking through the clouds.

By the time the top was reached it was snowing slightly. All the way back down the slippery hill the rain made life miserable.

And it proved that California is as variable as you wish to make it.

Steamship Owners to Aid Fight on Drugs

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Principal American steamship operators, directing trans-oceanic lines, have pledged the government co-operation in the fight to stop ship crews from smuggling in narcotics, it was announced today. Closer surveillance of the crews will be exercised, according to assurances given narcotic enforcement officials here.

Recent investigation has developed that an enormous quantity of illicit drugs finds entrance to the United States by being smuggled through ship crews. The government has supplied steamship operators with the names of suspects.

RULE BY BAYONET NEW ORDER NOW IN RHINELAND

French Military Lines Grow Tighter; Mood of Ruhr Population Menaces

By S. D. WEYER
For International News Service
MULHEIM, Feb. 13.—A Franco-Belgian policy of blood and iron, forced by bayonets, is in full swing in the occupied Rhineland today. French officials claim that the former policy of leniency proved ineffective.

The fifth week of Ruhr occupation has been marked by an all-round tightening of French military rule. Bayonets in the background proved futile. The French are now trying the cold steel on the bodies of the recalcitrants.

Not only are they trying, but the French are using the bayonet with tangible results. In Essen alone a dozen or more men are nursing most painful stabs, inflicted because the Germans did not move on fast enough when ordered to do so. The French have begun to disperse crowds by prodding the members with their bayonets.

The mood of the Ruhr population has changed from passive resistance to red hot fury which threatens now to assume a really aggressive character.

In the meantime the French are systematically perfecting the blockade of the Germans. They were obliged to admit, however, that rail traffic has become seriously impaired. Latest official figures show that eighty-two trains entered the occupied area and seventy-six left it on Monday. As compared with these figures, 3,000 trains entered the Ruhr daily prior to French occupation.

A high French official at French headquarters summed up this phase of the situation as follows:

"We tried to be decent with these people and make occupation as bearable as possible. But they cannot stand leniency. They have got to be forced. They want force. Well, they shall have it."

New sanctions are being imposed to break down German resistance, the last being the occupation of the towns of Wesel and Emmerich this morning.

French military authorities are seizing private automobiles everywhere.

Here, Newspaper correspondents are handicapped by this measure as the chauffeurs are afraid to venture beyond the limits of the towns in which they live. Yet motoring is the only means of communication in the Ruhr.

The food shortage is becoming acute.

HARRY W. CHASE JUSTICE OF PEACE

In connection with the justice court work Attorney Chase expects to carry on his private practice.

Harding Delays in Announcing Changes Planned in Cabinet

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—No announcement was forthcoming from the White House today.

It is understood President Harding will withhold naming a successor to Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall until he is ready at the same time to announce a successor to Postmaster-General Work, who will be shifted to the department of the interior, as stated in International News Service dispatches of February 1.

The expectation prevails in political circles that Senator Harry S. New of Indiana will be named postmaster-general, although although President Harding was said today to be still undecided.

SENATE APPROVES NORRIS MEASURE

Change in Date for Congress To Meet Must Be Given Approval by States

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 13.—The senate today approved the constitutional amendment of Senator Norris to convene congress in January. The vote was 63 to 6, four Democrats and two Republicans opposing the change.

The resolution, backed by the so-called "progressives" of both parties, originally provided also for the direct election of president and vice president, but this part was withdrawn by Norris to get action on the congressional provision at this session.

Efforts will be made to get the resolution through the house during the next ten days, so there will be no delay in ratification of the amendment by the states.

The amendment must be ratified by a two-thirds vote by the house and also by two-thirds of the states before it becomes effective.

British Labor Makes Attack Upon France

LONDON, Feb. 13.—The opening gun in British labor's attack against French seizure of the Ruhr was fired in the House of Commons this afternoon by Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the opposition, immediately after the new session was opened with a speech from the throne.

MacDonald denounced France's invasion of the Ruhr as "imperialistic," and warned that war clouds are gathering, "not only over the Ruhr, but over the near east as well."

Win Partial Victory In Child Labor Fight

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Proponents of a constitutional amendment to prohibit child labor won a preliminary victory today when a motion to send the amending resolution to a subcommittee of the senate judiciary committee was defeated by a vote of six to five.

TWO BANDITS IN LOS ANGELES HALT ARMED CAR AND ESCAPE WITH REGISTER MAIL MATTER

Shoot Chauffeur Without Warning; Stray Bullet Enters Nearby Office and Wounds Man; Posse In Search of Highwaymen

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13.—Firing without warning, two bandits early today shot and killed Sam McGee, negro chauffeur, and held up an armed automobile of the First National Bank in charge of O. L. Callen, bank guard, and W. Blizzard, head of the bank's mailing department, and escaped with a suitcase containing registered mail, the value of which was estimated at $100,000. The hold-up occurred at Fourth and Wall streets.

The bandits made a complete get-away before the guards and pedestrians could follow them.

Grover Mellus, in a nearby office, was wounded in the leg by a stray bullet.

McGee, the driver of the bank machine, was killed with a shotgun that almost tore his head from his body.

After McGee had been shot and killed instantly the machine careened into the sidewalk and one of the bandits quickly grabbed the suitcase which was declared by bank officials to have contained 150 or more pieces of registered and other important pieces of mail containing deposits from outside banks.

The money was being taken from the Arcade postal station at Third street and Central avenue to the First National bank.

Officials of the bank stated that all the money was protected by insurance policies and that neither the bank nor depositors would lose anything.

Bullet Through Window
One discharge from a sawed-off shotgun practically severed McGee's head. One of the bandits, who was riding in another machine alongside the bank car, ordered O. L. Callen, the bank guard, and W. Blizzard, of the bank mailing department, to hold up their hands.

Although the command was instantly obeyed by Callen and Blizzard, one of the bandits fired a bullet through the machine, which passed through a plate glass window of a nearby office building and struck Grover Mellus, who was in the office, in the right leg.

Disappear in Traffic
After the bandits secured the suitcase they immediately disappeared into the heavy morning traffic and were gone from sight before the bank guards or pedestrians could take up the chase.

Captain of Detectives Home immediately ordered out shotgun squads from Central police station to comb the city for a trace of the men.

Two pedestrians supplied the police with a license number which they declared was that of the car, a roadster, used by the bandits. A good description of the men was also obtained.

Revival Party Rests After Strenuous Week

The first break in the revival meetings which have been conducted at the Methodist church for a week by Mr. and Mrs. Stover and Emmett Wallace came Monday evening when the trio took a much needed rest. The meetings have been largely attended from the opening night, and an increased interest was noticeable at each succeeding meeting.

This morning between the hours of 9:30 and 10 o'clock, cottage prayer meetings were held. This afternoon at 4 o'clock a children's meeting will be held. At 7 o'clock a young people's meeting; at 7:30 a song service and at 8:10 sermon.

A young lady tells us Charlie Chaplin is engaged, so she intends asking her fellow if he can imitate Charlie Chaplin.

TOURING CAR AND TRUCK COLLIDE IN STREET

Both Drivers Place Blame on Other Party When They File Reports

A big Marmon car belonging to H. L. Billson of 101 North Plymouth street, Los Angeles, and driven by A. W. Speyers, backed out from the curb on Colorado between Central and Castle Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock and crashed into an oncoming Ford truck owned and driven by Petra Dragnoe, of 208 East Colorado. The impact smashed one fender of the big car and the axle and front wheel of the Ford.

Miss Billson and Mr. Dragnoe both reported the accident. Each blamed the other. Miss Billson said they backed out very carefully and that the truck was running slowly. She said her uncle owned the car and was perfectly able and willing to pay for the damage on his own vehicle but she was quite sure he would not care to pay for the damage done the Ford. She said her uncle was ill and not present when the accident occurred.

Dragnoe took another view. He maintained he had right of way and that the Marmon backed rapidly without first knowing that another car was or was not coming. No settlement was arrived at when the accident was reported.

Driver Loses License To Operate Automobile

The operator's card of F. W. Peck of Pasadena was ordered taken from the owner this week when Peck appeared before Judge Cruzan and pleaded guilty to driving on the wrong side of the street and otherwise making his car behave in a manner that no sober car should. Peck said he was going to Hollywood but had no definite idea in just what direction the movie city lay, according to the motor cop who handed him a ticket to appear in court.

Near East Lecture in Presbyterian Church

Dr. James Winnard, pastor, announces that the address will be illustrated with slides and relics from the Near East countries.

COUNCIL LAUNCHES CAMPAIGN FOR $22,500 SCOUTS' BUDGET

Delegates From Rotary, Exchange, Kiwanis Clubs Pledge Aid In Movement

AN intensive campaign to secure funds with which to finance the Boy Scout movement this year and next was launched last night in the dining room of the Citizens' building under the auspices of the Verdugo Hills Boy Scout district council.

Optimism was the keynote of the occasion. Many assurances that the drive would be a success were expressed. There was no thought of possible failure.

Over 100 men were present. Besides the members of the Council, large delegations were present from the Rotary, Exchange and Kiwanis clubs.

E. S. Hartranft of Fullerton was the speaker of the evening. He said that he felt sure that no matter how busy the men there were they would all have time for the Boy Scout movement.

"I know that men, who are active in church work or in the work of any organization that has for its object the betterment of the community,—I know that you are busy men!" he exclaimed. "But you can't enter into a greater undertaking than attempting to help the Boy Scout movement. I don't believe that men of today can put their hands upon a project that is more worthy of their financial support and fine thought than the Boy Scout movement."

Challenge to America

"The Boy Scout movement is a challenge to the best minds of America. The president of the United States is not too busy to pause in his great career of statesmanship to reach out his hand to the Boy Scout movement."

"You know too well what the boy of the next ten years has to face. The boy of the future will not be able to go up against the tide unless he has your strong moral support."

Answering a self-proposed inquiry as to whether or not the work was worth the amount of money to be raised locally, Mr. Hartranft replied that it would be worth the entire sum in question if it only kept one boy on the straight and narrow way.

Dr. E. H. Parker of 426 North Maryland avenue, as director of the campaign, presided at the banquet. He said that, if he had ever had any doubt as to the possibility that the campaign might fail, it had been dispelled as soon as he saw the men who were interested in it.

Strong Support

"This movement has the backing of every organization in the entire city of Glendale," he asserted. "We not only have the schools, and business men and churches, but we have the support of every club, also."

"Back Up Your Troubles" was the song which was used in a competition between the four groups present. Singing was led by "France" J. W. Henry of 224 Arden avenue. Captain D. Ripley Jackson of 1800 South Brand boulevard played the accompaniment. Mayor Spencer Robinson of 1234 East Windsor road led the musical grace in which all joined.

Campaign instructions were issued.

PLUMBER PLANS TO PERFORATE PLUNDERER

Frequent Burglaries Become Monotonous, Victim of Raids Declares

Earl O. Stice, who conducts a plumbing shop at 730 East Colorado boulevard, Eagle Rock, is real peeved at the fellow who takes the night hours to borrow his supplies, without first asking the owner's consent. He intimated that a heavy charge of buckshot will enter the anatomy of the nocturnal visitor the next time he attempts to ply his calling.

The last visit occurred a few nights ago. The burglar drove a truck up to the back door and loaded on a quantity of gas pipe. This happened at 1:30 o'clock. A neighbor witnessed the transaction and started from his house with a gun but was prevailed upon by his wife to keep in his own back yard.

Mr. Stice says he has been visited in a like manner several times in the past year.

Traffic Law Violator Is Fined Five Dollars

J. E. Mullen, of Pasadena paid $5.00 in traffic court in Eagle Rock at the last session of court for not having an operator's license. He was also accused of exceeding the speed limit.

Mullen said he had been in the state for three months but was not aware of the fact that it was necessary to have a card. He said if the judge would tell him where he could get information on the traffic laws, he would lose no time in getting and digesting the information necessary to keep out of the clutches of the law. Judge Cruzan advised Mullen to inquire just two doors from where he was working in Pasadena.

Mullen said he arrived in California from Colorado three months before.

Committee to Report In City Employee Probe

The City Trustees of Eagle Rock are scheduled for another long session tonight. One of the questions that is considered of importance and that is being watched for with interest, is the report of the committee appointed to investigate the charges brought against Building Inspector Wright by the Eagle Rock realty board. The committee is expected to hand in the report tonight.

When you find a man who has no prejudice, you have found one who has no convictions.

GEORGE V. LAUDS DEBT AGREEMENT

British Pact With America Is Welcomed by Ruler In Parliament

LONDON, Feb. 13.—Extraordinary police precautions were taken today to guard King George from hostile unemployment demonstrations when he went to parliament building from Buckingham palace to open the "long" session of parliament. The route followed by the royal procession was lined with uniformed police and plain clothes detectives.

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service
LONDON, Feb. 13.—King George, in opening the new session of parliament today with a speech from the throne, expressed satisfaction over the agreement reached with the United States for paying the British war debt.

"I welcome the prospective settlement of our debt to the United States, which reflects the determination of our people to meet their obligations," said the King. King George urged government economy, by cutting down national expenditures. He voiced concern over continued distress from unemployment, but announced that relief measures were progressing. The King predicted an increasing revival of trade and announced additional credit facilities would be proposed to aid agriculture.

The King said there would be reforms in local taxation as well as in rents.

Lloyd George Threat

Parliament opened under a cloud of impending strife, for the laborites, aided by a faction under former Premier Lloyd George, threaten to attack the government's foreign policy, especially as it affects the Ruhr and the near east. Laborites said that the recall of the British army from the Rhineland would be demanded.

A long session is in prospect. The opening was attended with all the traditional royal pomp and pageantry. Crowds lined the streets around the parliament building. Members began arriving hours before time for the speaker to call the session to order.

European Debts

King George voiced regret over the inability of Great Britain and France to agree on reparations, "despite the debt concessions offered by the British to the allies."

Referring to the French invasion of the Ruhr, he said: "My government, feeling unable either to concur or to participate in this operation, acted in such a way as to not add any difficulties to our allies."

In reviewing the Lausanne negotiations, the King declared: "A sincere, patient effort was made to bring to a close conditions of warfare which, for eight years, desolated the regions of the near east."

King George expressed regret that "in spite of the conciliatory spirit shown by all the allies and the immense amount of concessions, the treaty, when on the verge of signature, was declined by the Turks." He added: "But I cherish the hope that when a full report of the proceedings reaches the Turkish government, it will be disposed to accept the treaty and the opportunity for rebuilding the war losses so that peace will not be sacrificed."

Will Abandon Station Where No One Travels

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 13.—A railroad station where no tickets have been sold in the last four years.

That's the record of the Wampsville, Madison county, depot of the New York Central, and the railroad has moved for its abandonment before the public service commission.

Farm Boy President Of Large College

Dr. W. Wallace Campbell

Dr. William Wallace Campbell, director of the Lick observatory, at Mount Hamilton, California, has been elected to the presidency of the University of California, succeeding Dr. David P. Barrows. Dr. Campbell, born on a farm in Hancock county, Ohio, in 1862, started his education in the "Little Red Schoolhouse" and had many trials and tribulations, before becoming one of the country's foremost educators.

Cow's Stomach Yields Big Junk Collection

KENDALLVILLE, Ind., Feb. 13.—George Dull, residing near here, is wondering what relation his cow was to the goat family.

The animal was noted for giving a large quantity of rich milk and had a wonderful "constitution." Recently the cow became sick and refused to eat, although she previously had had a big "appetite" and unusual digestive organs. Finally she refused to give milk and died a few days after.

Dull called a veterinarian, who performed a post mortem. In the animal's stomach were found four pieces of baling wire, a variety of small nails and tacks and other iron articles. One piece of baling wire protruded through the stomach. The contents of the stomach worked through the channel made into the lung by the wire and the sac in the lung continued to expand until it entirely supplanted the lung. The contents of the stomach filled a twelve quart pail and weighed 29 pounds.

Oriental Religion Is Denounced by Pastor

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 13.—"That the American Eve is eating the apple again is an assertion justified by the facts," declared Rev. Harold Cooper, pastor of the Mayflower Congregational church here.

"Teachers of Oriental faiths come over here, and silly women follow them, giving of devotion, time and wealth."

"While the philosophy of the Oriental cults may be good the actual practice is sometimes horrible. American women need guard against the vogue of Orientalism prevalent in this country."

"I have seen lewd carving on Hindu temples and shrines where fallen women are worshipped like gods. The statues of women in the Far East are the worst testimony of the faiths held there. "Be assured of one thing—there is nothing good in these Oriental religions that cannot be found in your own faith. When you have found all they contain you can still find additional truth and comfort by devotion to Jesus Christ."

TURKISH LEADERS MEET AT SMYRNA

Kemal Plans to Foil Foes of Peace at Council of Moslem Chiefs

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
For International News Service
LONDON, Feb. 13.—An important Turkish military and state council has been summoned at Smyrna to discuss various phases of the Near East situation, said a despatch from Constantinople this afternoon.

Ismet Pasha, head of the Turkish delegation in the Lausanne peace conference announced that he would leave for Smyrna at once instead of going to Angora as he originally planned.

Advices from Constantinople during the morning said that Ismet had arrived in that city. A second despatch this afternoon said that he would reach that city tomorrow. In messages he sent to the Turkish officials at Constantinople he adopted a most optimistic attitude over the whole Near East situation.

It is understood that Mustapha Kemal Pasha, head of the Turkish government, summoned the council at Smyrna instead of Angora to outwit and get away from the Turkish extremists who are crying for war against the allies.

Kemal Seeks Peace
Moderate Turks were quoted by Constantinople advices as saying that both Kemal and Ismet favor acceptance of the Lausanne treaty with slight changes, knowing that Turkey would stand no show in war against the mighty armies and fleets of the allies and perhaps the United States.

Turkish officials making up Kemal's army council are at Smyrna and the Russian envoy to Turkey, M. Arloff, is reported to be on his way to that city from Angora.

The only disquieting news of the Near East was contained in a Constantinople telegram saying that foreign warships had been barred from the Gulf of Ismid and an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Athens reporting that both the Turks and the Greeks were moving troops through Thrace toward the Maritza river.

NEW SUB-DIVISION READY FOR SALE

Location of Property Near Schools and Highways Adds to Value

With the announcement of the opening of the Wing Ranch subdivision, comes an unparalleled opportunity to purchase at most moderate prices the very highest class residence property right in the heart of Glendale, scarcely three blocks from the new $500,000 high school, within three blocks of one of the city's largest grammar schools, and facing just south of Colorado street, the leading thoroughfare of both Glendale and Pasadena.

The Sycamore Canyon boulevard, which is to be 100 feet wide and the most fashionable driveway this side of Wilshire, runs along the full length of the tract. Each lot, moreover, contains an average of ten full bearing orange trees. Valencias and navels to the value of $25 per tree have been picked from this tract within the last month.

Install Improvements
Water, gas and lights are going in with a rush, together with other modern improvements. Building restrictions with a minimum of $3500 have been set, no temporary houses permitted, but one house to a lot and no duplexes. In other words, precautions have been taken to preserve this as one of Glendale's finest residential districts, with all close-in advantages such as schools, car lines, main boulevards, churches, and a great, thriving city within a matter of a few blocks.

The tract office, now open, is located at 1200 East Colorado street, at the corner of Sycamore Canyon road. As there are but 114 lots in the tract, Marvin E. Smith, selling agent for Benj. Sheldon and A. G. Smith, subdividers, advises prospective buyers not to delay getting out and making their selections. The prices are $1400 and up, with one-fourth down and three years to pay the balance.

"The time is coming, and soon," states Mr. Smith, "when those who have failed to take advantage of opportunities like this will be unable to buy close-in Glendale property at any price. This is just about the last great opportunity in the city, and I want to go on record as prophesying it won't last long."

Chinese in Danger Of Extinction! Auto And Devil Blamed

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13.—The impressive "Chinese" is in imminent danger of extinction. He will disappear from the face of the earth directly when automobiles are imported in large numbers into the Orient, S. H. Pierson, American newspaperman returning from a tour of the east, declares.

It's all because of the devil, a healthy specimen of which haunts all Chinese, devising there to deeds of heroism that would be commendable on the battlefield," Pierson said.

The devil, although not visible, has a habit of attaching itself to the coat tails of the orthodox Chinese man. Therefore, to rid oneself of this necessary evil, all one must do is to jump in front of a swiftly moving automobile, allowing the tender to brush Satan from the clothing.

"It's simple and yet the faster an automobile goes the better they like it and sometimes their feet slip," Pierson added.

To further elucidate these pests, the Chinese have a habit of walking on a zigzag course, for, he it known, the devil can only travel in a straight line, Pierson volunteered.

Cynical Jury Awards Child to Its Mother

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13.—Mother love won a verdict in police court here with women of the night life, hardened criminals and court hanger-on as the jury.

Mrs. Anna Castagnone, of Los Angeles, was charged by her divorced husband, Carlo, with having kidnapped their 5-year-old son. The mother told of the child having cried for her every time she visited him. The judge said: "I'll give the child to the mother, she'll take care of it."

Everyone in the courtroom but the complaining father and his attorney arose. "Charge dismissed," snapped the judge. "Next case."

The mother returned to Los Angeles with the child.

Smuggle Liquor From Germany in Old Papers

DETROIT, Feb. 13.—A rum-smuggling scheme more adroit than any yet brought to light is believed to have been uncovered here by customs officials. Concealed in several bundles of newspapers sent to Detroit from Germany were found bottles of American whiskey.

The bundles of German newspapers, consigned to local addresses, from Berlin and Hamburg, have been coming in to Detroit for several months. By accident one of the collector's aides kicked a bundle and a quart of liquor fell out. Several other bundles were unwrapped and liquor found.

STOCKS, MARKETS

The sugar stocks continued in demand, Punta Alegre showing a gain of over 5 points at 59 1/2. The locomotive stocks were in demand and showed good gains. The motor issues reacted about 1 point. Federal Mining, showed a gain of over 10 points at 60 1/2.

Corn, however, sustained a reaction late in the session and eased off to below last Saturday's closing levels. Oats followed the trend of wheat.

In spite of the bullishness shown at times, dried in the wool bears refused to retreat from their position. Wheat closed 1/4 @ 1 1/4 c higher; corn 1/4 @ 1/2 c lower and oats 1/4 @ 1/2 c higher. Provisions were steady most of the day, lard closing firm, short ribs easier.

Sidetrack Subsidy to Ratify Debt Agreement

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Under a unanimous consent agreement the senate early this afternoon put aside the administration's ship subsidy bill and took up the bill to ratify the Anglo-American debt funding agreement, under which Great Britain is to pay her $4,600,000,000 war debt to the United States.

The Smoot-Burton bill, which amends the debt funding act in accordance with the British settlement, was called up by Senator McCumber, Republican, of North Dakota, chairman of the senate finance committee.

Consideration of the bill took place during the senate's "morning hour" but plans were under way to force a test vote with a view to definitely displacing the ship subsidy with the debt agreement.

Wives can never form a union because very few husbands can afford to put on three shifts.

RUSSIANS USING YANKEE TRACTORS

4000 Acres Cultivated by Americans Will Feed Hungry Peasants

MOSCOW, Feb. 13.—American tractors, operated by American engineers, have turned the soil of 4000 Russian acres and planted enough grain to feed 5000 Russian miners for a year.

Next season, it is expected, the American farmer lads will have under cultivation more than 10,000 acres.

The American tractor unit, as it is known, was sent over last summer by the friends of soviet Russia in the United States. It was assigned to the Kiesel mine area in Perm, where the Russian peasants had been unable to grow sufficient food to supply the men who operate the mines. The miners had been granted a tract of 14,000 acres by the government, but had succeeded in planting only about 1000 acres and were forced to reap their crops with hand sickles because of lack of equipment. Due to these handicaps many miners had left the district, and many of the peasants were starving.

Peasants Trained
With their first summer's work completed, about half of the American unit have returned home. The remaining members have "dug in" for the winter and are spending the long, cold months in overhauling their equipment and preparing for spring planting.

"We cannot speak too warmly of the help given us by the local peasants," said Harold Ware, leader of the unit. "They are energetic workers, naturally in view to definitely displacing the ship subsidy with the debt agreement."

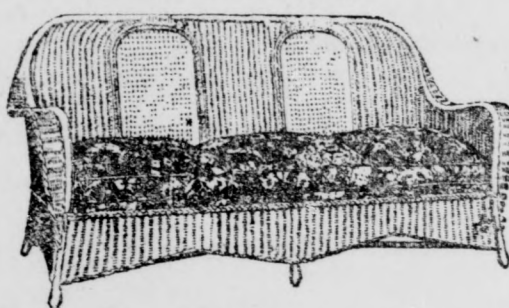

About 40 peasants have been trained in the use of tractors by the American unit, and many others are undergoing tutelage.

COMMENT THAT'S ALL

Deserved Recognition
Governor In South
Crisis Faces Europe
Some "Wonder" Figures

—By Gil A. Cowan—

Of utmost financial importance to Glendale is the announcement by the Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings bank that its two local managers have been named vice-presidents of the institution.

They have earned this recognition; in fact, it was due them long before. The sterling worth of Herman Nelson of the Glendale avenue branch and D. H. Smith of the Brand boulevard branch has been noticed all of these years from the time they were officers in the old Bank of Glendale to the present instance of promotion.

In positions of managers these men have been more to Glendale than their titles inferred, for they have held the destinies of many Glendale enterprises and acted in the capacity of advisers for many financial ventures on the part of our citizens which have been carried to successful conclusions.

With that added authority extended them in the positions of vice-presidents there are still greater things in store for Messrs. Smith and Nelson. Congratulations are due them.

As pointed out by City Manager W. H. Reeves, this city has the golden opportunity of making three million dollar months in a building program which shows no signs of slackening.

Glendale goes ahead at a gait which is astounding. Most inland cities lacking industrial booms, boast of $100,000 average month's building.

Here, however, it is different. Big things are expected. They are taken as a matter of course.

Boy Scouts are getting theirs this week. The drive is on for financing the biennial budget.

The different organizations of the city are backing the boys to a fare-you-well in gathering in dollars.

At a banquet last night the business men of this city made a mighty fine showing, although no dinner dress suits were noticeable and only five diamond stickpins were seen flashing.

All of which reveals another reason why most of us like Glendale.

Al, George, Jim and Jack are the real stuff—regular fellows.

Governor Friend W. Richardson is a visitor in southern California this week. He comes to attend a meeting of the board of regents of the University of California.

Particular stress should be put upon the development of the southern branch at this time by its boosters, for there is an institution which is doing a great deal for the young people residing south of Tehachapi.

While it may be impractical at this time for the legislature to authorize a four-year course, certainly it is desirable. And additional lands and buildings should be provided to care for the increased enrollment.

All of this may not appeal to the northern solons, where a majority of the population from San Francisco, Oakland, Alameda and other bay district points can send their young folks commuting to school and have them home over the week-ends, but to the southland certain demands make it mandatory that money be spent here, too, for university preparatory work.

France is preparing to annex the Ruhr territory, according to latest advices from "over there." A new Rhineland state, intended to strip Berlin of sovereign powers, may be the solution of the present difficulties. And, again, it may not!

Germany is in a half-way defiant mood. So might any country under similar circumstances look with hostility on the results of its own stubbornness. A boycott of the French and Belgians now in progress in the occupied zone. That will lead to more bloodshed.

All of this politico-military turmoil in Europe has its effect in America, too, for the prospects of war disturb international affairs, which, in turn, upsets this country's peace and equanimity.

At the same time we can be thankful it isn't Germany annexing our Panama canal or something like that, had Wilhelm won the war.

"Wonder figures" is the way Collector Rex B. Goodcell describes his southern California reports to the Internal Revenue department.

"Wonder" is right. The public here in this happy land sometimes wonders at his figures when they know who pays the bill.

"Wonder" if Goodcell doesn't wonder how we all "kick in" so graciously. While a reduction of $15,000,000 was made in federal taxes in southern California by recent legislation—which didn't help the poor devil earning a modest income much—the collector's prediction that business prosperity would offset this figure has been verified.

Here are eleven "wonder" figures quoted:

First—Increase of 300 per cent in receipts from automobile trucks means that three times more trucks were made and sold in December, 1922, than in December, 1921. Tax collected represents manufacturers' sales of $410,973 compared with $108,431 for December, 1921.

Second—Increase of 94 per cent in manufacturers' sales of candy. With the tax reduced from 5 per cent to 3 per cent, the

INCREASE SHOWN IN LUMBER SALES

Glendale Firm Reports Gain
Of 15 Per Cent Over Total
Of January, 1922

With Glendale in the ring for "three million dollar months," it is only natural for one to inquire "how brisk is building?"

W. R. Vanderwood, secretary of the Fox-Woodsum Lumber company, with general offices at 714 East California avenue, is one who knows.

"January, 1923, shows a 15 per cent increase over the corresponding period last year," he reports. That's convincing and it sounds better, too, when he tells that the firm's yards in the citrus belt of Riverside county are keeping pace, also.

The Glendale plant of the Fox-Woodsum company now employs sixty men to handle its greatly increased business, part of which is due to the addition of a complete mill equipment.

Give Quick Service
According to Mr. Vanderwood the local mill is one of the most up-to-date in southern California. They specialize in the manufacture of doors, windows—in fact, all materials which enter into the building of a home. Formerly this work had to be obtained outside.

The mill enables the lumber company to give quick service on special orders for all sorts of interior finish such as is being used in storerooms and exclusive residences. A high standard of quality is maintained in this work, although lumber and materials may be purchased in Glendale at prices

CHANGE IN CIVIL SERVICE SOUGHT

Report Urges Governor to Put State Employees on
New Basis

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 13.—The biennial report of the state civil service commission, which was submitted today to Governor Friend W. Richardson, stressed the importance of maintaining the civil service system as an insurance against the form of political patronage and urges that the merit plan be extended to cover virtually all branches of the state government.

It is specifically recommended that the employees of the legislature be brought under civil service.

All other state agencies with the exception of teachers' certificates, the state university and the public schools, would be more efficient if the civil service plan were applied, the report states. Among the departments which are now exempt from civil service are the railroad commission, division of architecture, division of land settlement, veterans' welfare board and a limited number of employees in various offices, such as the board of control, motor vehicle department, governor's office, controller's office and state library.

David J. Reese is president and executive officer of the civil service board.

None but a bolshevik would hope to retain both the confidence and the property of allens.

as low as Los Angeles firms, Mr. Vanderwood concluded.

SAVINGS STAMPS EXCHANGES GROW

New Savings Certificates
Attract Investors,
Mellon Wires

Governor Calkins of the federal reserve bank of San Francisco is in receipt of the following telegram from Secretary Mellon of the Treasury Department at Washington, D. C.:

"Final reports as to exchanges of 1918 War Savings Certificates for the new Treasury Savings Certificates are not yet available, but reports received to date show that issues of the new certificates on that account already amount to over $65,000,000, representing about $80,000,000 in maturity value. Exchanges are still coming in steadily and will reach a considerably larger figure when the returns are all in from Post-offices and Banks.

Out of the $638,000,000 or thereabouts, of War Savings Certificates of the series of 1918 outstanding when the present operations began, the total redemptions, including the $65,000,000 exchanged for Treasury Savings Certificates as above stated, had reached about $500,000,000 (maturity value) by January 31, 1923.

Should Redeem Stamps

On this basis and according to the best estimates which are obtainable, there are matured War Savings Certificates with a maturity value of about $13,000,000 still outstanding. Holders of these certificates are urged to present them promptly either for cash redemption or for exchange into the new Treasury Savings Certificates. Registered Certificates must be presented to the Post-office where registered, but unregistered Certificates may be presented at postoffices throughout the country. Federal Reserve Banks and branches, or the Treasury Department at Washington, while banking institutions generally are undertaking to handle such transactions for their customers."

The MUCKER

by Edgar Rice Burroughs

Copyright 1921 by Edgar Rice Burroughs

There was a smile upon his lips which they could not see because of the distance, and which, not knowing Billy Byrne, they would not have interpreted correctly; but the revolver they did understand, and at sight of it one of them threw his carbine to his shoulder. His finger, however, never closed upon the trigger, for there came the sound of a shot from beyond Billy Byrne and the Mexican staggered forward, pitching over the edge of the porch to the ground.

Billy turned his head in the direction from which the shot had come and saw Eddie Shorter running toward him, a smoking six-shooter in his right hand.

"Go back," commanded Byrne; "this is my funeral."

"Not on your life," replied Eddie Shorter. "Those gringos aren't taking no white man off! El Orobo, while I'm here. Get busy! They're comin'!"

And sure enough they were coming, and as they came their carbines popped and the bullets whizzed about the heads of the two Americans. Grayson, too, had taken a hand upon the side of the Villista. From the bunkhouse other men were running rapidly in the direction of the fight, attracted by the first shots.

Billy and Eddie stood their ground, a few paces apart. Two more of Villa's men went down. Grayson ran for cover. Then Billy Byrne dropped the last of the Mexicans just as the men from the bunkhouse came panting upon the scene. They were both Americans and Mexicans among them.

All were armed and weapons were ready in their hands.

They paused a short distance from the two men. Eddie's presence upon the side of the stranger saved Billy from instant death, for Eddie was well-liked by both his Mexican and American fellow-workers.

"What's the fuss?" asked an American.

Eddie told them, and when they learned that the boss's daughter had been spirited away and that the ranch foreman was at the bottom of it the anger of the Americans rose to a dangerous pitch.

"Where is he?" someone asked. They were gathered in a little cluster now about Billy Byrne and Shorter.

"I saw him duck behind the office building," said Eddie.

"Come on," said another. "We'll get him."

"Someone get a rope." The men spoke in low, ordinary tones; but their determination was the most apparent characteristic of the group. One of them ran back toward the bunkhouse for his rope. The others walked slowly in the direction of the rear of the office building. Grayson was not there. The search proceeded. The Americans were in advance. The Mexicans kept in a little group by themselves a little in rear of the others—it was not their trouble. If the gringos wanted to lynch another gringo, well and good—that was the gringos' business. They would keep out of it, and they did.

Down past the bunkhouse and the cookhouse to the stables the searchers made their way. Grayson could not be found. In the stables one of the men made a discovery—the foreman's saddle had vanished. Out in the corral they went. One of the men laughed—the bars were down and the saddle horses gone. Eddie Shorter presently pointed out across the pasture and the river to the skyline of the low bluffs beyond. The others looked. A horseman was just visible urging his mount upward to the crest, the two stood in silhouette against the morning sky pink with the new sun.

"That's him," said Eddie.

"Let him go," said Billy Byrne. "He won't never come back and he ain't worth chasin'. Not while we got Miss Barbara to look after. My horse is down there with yours. I'm goin' down to get him. Will you come. Shorter? I may need help—I ain't much with a rope yet."

He started off without waiting for a reply, and all the Americans followed. Together they circled the horses and drove them back to the corral. When Billy had saddled and mounted he saw that the others had done likewise.

"We're goin' with you," said one of the men. "Miss Barbara belongs to us."

Billy nodded and moved off in the direction of the ranchhouse. Here he dismounted and with Eddie Shorter and Mr. Harding commenced circling the house in search of some manner of clue to the direction taken by the abductors. It was not long before they came upon the spot where the Indians' horses had stood the night before. From there the trail led plainly down toward the river. In a moment ten Americans were following it, after Mr. Harding had supplied Billy Byrne with a carbine, another six-shooter, and ammunition.

Through the river and the cut in the barbed-wire fence, then up the face of the bluff and out across the low mesa beyond the trail led. For a mile it was distinct, and then disappeared as though the riders had separated.

"Well," said Billy, as the others drew around him for consultation, "they'd be goin' to the hills there. They was Pimans—Esteban's tribe. They got hor up there in the hills somewhere. Let's split up an' search the hills for her. Whoever comes on 'em first'll have to do some shootin' and the rest of us can close in an' help. We can go in pairs—then if one's killed the other can ride out an' lead the way back to where it happened."

The men seemed satisfied with the plan and broke up into parties of two. Eddie Shorter paired off with Billy Byrne.

"Spread out," said the latter to his companions. "Eddie an' I'll ride straight ahead—the rest of you fan out a few miles on either side of us. S'long an' good luck," and he started off toward the hills with Eddie Shorter at his side.

Back at the ranch the Mexican vaqueros lounged about, grumbling. With no foreman there was nothing to do except talk about their troubles. They had not been paid since the looting of the bank at Cuivaca, for Mr. Harding had been unable to get any silver from elsewhere until a few days since. He now had assurances that it was on the way to him; but whether or not it would reach El Orobo was a question.

"Why should we stay here when we are not paid?" asked one of them.

"Yes, why?" chorused several others.

"There is nothing to do here," said another. "We will go to Cuivaca. I, for one, am tired of working for the gringos."

This met with the unqualified approval of all, and a few moments later the men had saddled their ponies and were galloping away in the direction of sun-baked Cuivaca. They sang now and then, and were happy, for they were a little boys playing hooky from school—not bad men; but rather irresponsible children.

Once in Cuivaca they swooped down upon the drinking place, where, with what little money few of them had left they proceeded to get drunk.

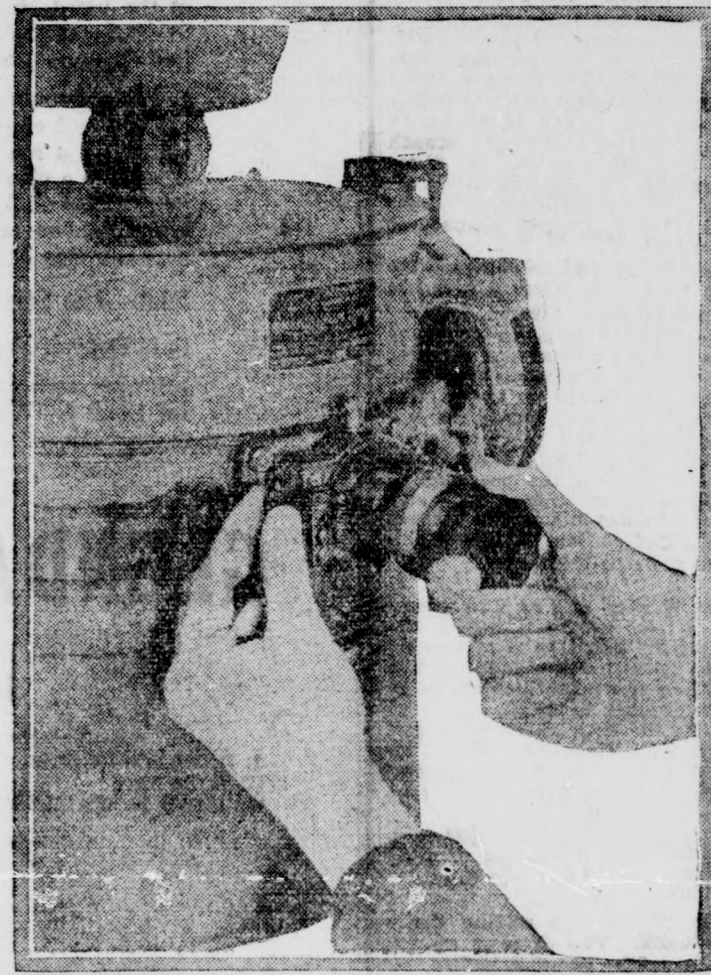

Later in the day an old, dried-up Indian entered. He was hot and dusty from a long ride.

U. S. AIR SERVICE (RESERVE)

SIGNALING METHODS WITH ARC TRANSMITTERS

While the transmitter is in operation there will be a continuous flow of undamped current in the antenna circuit unless means are provided whereby it may be broken up into the conventional dots and dashes constituting the signals of the Morse code. There are four general methods of accomplishing signaling with Federal arc transmitters, as follows:

1. "Back Shunt" method.
2. "Ignition Key" method.
3. "Compensation" method.
4. "Chopper" method.

With the Federal system various models are equipped with different methods of signaling. Models "K" and "Q" 2 kw transmitters are equipped with the "back shunt" method, as the principal means of signaling. The 5 kw transmitter, CT-1201 is equipped with the "ignition key" method, as, also, is the model "X" kw set. A "compensation" system is supplied as an auxiliary means of signaling on all these models, which are also furnished with "choppers" for short wave length signaling when transmitting to stations provided with detectors only intended for receiving damped waves.

Daily News Letter

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers at Home and Abroad.

TODAY—H. C. Hamilton, Atlanta correspondent, writes of the climate in Georgia and of the co-operative marketing movement in the south.

TOMORROW—Larry Smits, New York correspondent, speculating on "the way of the non-transgressor," concludes that the problem of eating without drinking is not a negligible impediment to temperance.

By H. C. HAMILTON
For International News Service

ATLANTA, Feb. 13.—Georgia, stretching from the southern tips of the Appalachians on the north to the warm waters of the Gulf of Mexico on the south, and to the warm breezes from the Gulf Stream on the east, offers a variety of climate, to say the least.

And when it gets cold in Georgia, as it occasionally does, it paradoxically does not get cold. It gets mean. The rain falls, it gets a little colder, wind-ing up along about midnight just cold enough to freeze—and the rain keeps on.

Any man who lives in the North—or any child, for that matter—can tell you what rain and freezing weather means. It means to the North a sleet storm—disagreeable, uncomfortable, but still just a sleet storm. In Georgia, however, it means crashing pine trees, curtailed street car and train service, demoralized telephone and telegraph service and other things "too numerous to mention."

In Georgia the sleet storm is a glass storm, and that describes it pretty well. Believe us, it's slick weather. The last one hit Georgia the middle of January. Wires snapped from north to south. Only one route of wires by which one could talk or telegraph out of Atlanta was left open, and that slender thread of communication hooked Atlanta with Charlotte, N. C., where other wires were available for repeating purposes. Steam plants to supply electric power were called into use for the first time in several years because the hydro-electric high tension lines running from the North Georgia mountains to Atlanta were unable to cope with the demand.

Diversion of crops, supporters of the co-operative plan say, also will be brought more strongly home to agriculturists through the success of price control.

The present price of cotton, higher by many cents than after the war collapse deflated that market and ruined many producers, is an example of what may be accomplished. Of course the boll weevil and curtailed production helped send the price of the all-important commodity soaring, but the co-operative marketing also helped. Cotton is not being thrown on the market in huge amounts every time the market advances a few cents these days. It is being doled out as the market can absorb it without disturbing prices. Contracts have been signed by most producers of this commodity in the South, and next year will see even greater influence exerted.

Despite the evident intention of legislators from San Francisco and interior counties to oppose re-apportionment, which would give Los Angeles county six more assemblymen and three additional senators, the Southern delegation is said to be prepared to fight to the last to get the redistricting, which is provided for by the constitution.

Once such as honeycomb cells, the advantages of a switch and connection of this design can be readily appreciated in that it increases the wave length range through which the primary will respond.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND JOHNNIE'S TOOTH

When Uncle Wiggily hopped home to his hollow stump bungalow one day, having gone to the three and four-cent store to buy a new dishpan for Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the bunny rabbit housekeeper hurrying to and fro in the kitchen, Nurse Jane was looking under the table and under chairs and behind doors.

"What's the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "Is the Fuzzy Fox hiding somewhere in here?"

"Oh, no," answered Nurse Jane with tears in her eyes.

"Then have you been peeling onions?" asked Uncle Wiggily, seeing the tears.

"Worse than that," answered Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "I have lost the beautiful diamond tail ring you gave me for Christmas! I have lost my diamond tail ring!"

The fingers on Nurse Jane's paws were so short that she could not wear rings on them, and when Uncle Wiggily gave her a diamond and Nurse Jane did. She gave Johnnie a piece of pie, and she was very glad to get back her Christmas diamond tail ring. So the bunny didn't have to buy her another. And when Johnnie's toothache stopped he dug up the ring he had hidden, and he and his brother Billie ate them.

And if the pussy cat doesn't make the black doggie turn white by sprinkling talcum powder on him, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's alarm clock.

A double switch comprising two switch arms and eight contact points, designed for switching the primary condenser (or variometer) from a series to a parallel connection so that the primary condenser for the usual size for short wave work will still be of use on the very long waves. The accompanying circuit diagram shows its connection with respect to the primary inductance, aerial and ground, and it will be seen that when the switch is in its central position the condenser is short circuited so that the circuit consists of the primary inductance only. When the switch is turned to the left the condenser is in series with the primary inductance and when turned to the right it is brought in parallel with the primary inductance.

REGRET BUT NOT REMORSE

A neighbor of ours has recently lost her husband from a disease for which the most common treatment is an operation which is successful in the majority of cases.

One of the doctors wanted to operate. The woman was very much against it. She has never believed in operations. Another doctor in whom she has always had faith advised her to wait. She waited and her husband died.

The man had been much beloved and there has been feeling against his wife.

"I guess now she wishes she hadn't been so set against operations," said one of her neighbors when we were discussing the case. "I guess she'll be sorry the longest day she lives that she wouldn't let the doctors try that."

"Oh, no she won't," said another neighbor. "Don't you believe it. She isn't that kind. She will feel sure that he would have died anyway. She will be perfectly satisfied with herself and think she did the best thing that could be done. That's the way she always feels about things."

They Blame Her

There was considerable bitterness in that summing up. My neighbor evidently considered this woman's failure to flagellate herself for not having done something different as a very grave fault.

But was it?

Or was it a sign of a well-balanced mind?

She abided by the decision of a doctor in whom she had faith. She had acted according to her best judgment. There is no way of knowing for sure that the operation would have been successful. Is it not the part of sanity to marshal these facts instead of to torture herself with the thought that all would be well if she had only acted differently

BLIND STYES AND CHALAZIONS

The reason one stye seems to follow another and you have crops of them is because the first stye has lowered the tissue resistance somewhat. There are always a few of the same strain of germs that caused the original stye still lurking around, emboldened by their ancestors' success. This lowered tissue resistance, combined with the now bolder germs, causes the second stye, and so on. In fact, it is very seldom that you will have one stye without having a group of them if you do not know how to prevent them. I told you how to do that in yesterday's article.

If it happens that you have not succeeded in massaging the stye early enough to abort it, then hot applications of boric acid solutions—one teaspoonful of boric acid to a cup of hot water—should be used frequently, every two hours if possible.

Do not squeeze the stye until it comes to a head, and then gently because squeezing lowers the resistance still further, making the stye worse. If possible it is best to have a stye opened by a physician as soon as it begins to show the pus point. This will furnish an outlet and will save the system from further swelling and pain. But if you cannot have the incision made then you must wait until there is further destruction of the tissue and more pus is formed.

Bathe the eye in hot boric acid solution at least twice a day, and continue for a month or longer, to kill off any lingering germs. It is well to use the one per cent yellow oxide of mercury and massage the lids with it also. Perhaps once a day.

Of course, if there are any general systemic or eye disorders they must be corrected.

All my talk so far has been on the external styes. Now I am going to tell you a little about internal styes and chalazions. The internal styes are sometimes called blind styes. Instead of being an infection of the eyelash glands as is the ordinary stye, they are an infection of the glands known as the Meibomian glands.

These Meibomian are larger oil glands in the tissue of the lids. They are called Meibomian from

ANSWERED LETTERS

A Reader—The hair tonic you mention is called "Pilocarpine Tonic," the formula for which appears at intervals in this column. There is not space to repeat it at this time, but I will be glad to mail it to you on receipt of s. a. e.

Constant Reader—The best way to reduce is through diet and exercise. I should never advise drugs for this purpose. If you are in need of directions in the choice of foods, I will be glad to mail such a formula to you.

Elsie A.—Usually, when there are both pimples and blackheads, there is also imperfect elimination. The system is clearing itself through the skin. In such cases the pores become coarse because they are overtaxed, and the mixture of oil and excretion from the pores. A change from white to a cream color will be helpful. Choose breakfast cereals in which there is some ruffage and balance every meal in which there is much starch by enough fruit, green vegetables or salads.

Mrs. E. E. S.—The darkened tint left on your skin from the sunburn of last season will bleach off if you apply peroxide of hydrogen several times each week. Take care not to touch the lashes or brows as it will bleach them also.

Mrs. Jean S.—Your cream was a failure because you did not follow the directions. The spermaceti is in the formula to assist in making the emulsion. Since you omitted it the cream cannot be smooth. Heat it over and add half a teaspoonful of powdered borax to it and use it up now as a cleaning cream. This will give you a chance to make a better material without any waste, but make the cream over again and follow the directions accurately and you should have a superior article.

There can be no set rule for using cream, as some skins need more than others. A dry skin will require more feeding than one that secretes enough oil to keep it in order. The time of the year affects the skin also and more cream is needed in the cold weather than when the skin is more active, as it is in the warmer season of the year. It is well to experiment with your own skin.

Community Service Members Receive Invitations From Other Clubs

Interest in the music committee of the local Community Service organization is increasing with the development of the activities of the committee. The Community Service music institute being directed by Alexander Stewart is of paramount interest, of course, and last week the committee members were recipients of invitations to affairs in Hollywood and Fullerton.

The Hollywood invitation came from Mrs. J. J. Carter, president of the Hollywood community chorus, inviting the committee members to attend the meeting of Hollywood Music Club, Wednesday night, February 14, at the Hollywood Women's clubhouse. The invitation has been formally accepted by the Glendadians.

Residents Welcome

From Fullerton came an invitation from the Community Service music committee there asking the Glendale music committee to visit Fullerton some time in March and put on a program at the community sing. As yet no action has been taken with regard to this invitation.

Glendale residents will be interested to know that they are invited to attend the meeting of the local music institute next Monday night, February 19, in room 124 at the Glendale Union high school. It will be a regular session of the class directed by Alexander Stewart and he will speak on "Community Music as a National Movement." Prominent musicians have received special invitations, but Mr. Stewart announces that all those interested are welcome.

Rich Gems Are Found In Old Indian Mound

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio, Feb. 13.—Information that a necklace, valued at $15,000, containing 300 fresh-water pearls, was unearthed from the Hopeville Indian Mound, near Chillicothe, last summer has just been made public.

Dr. W. C. Mills, director of the Ohio State Archaeological Society, said: "This is the finest necklace ever found among the mound builders' relics." The gems are the property of the state. An offer of $15,000 for them was refused.

Several of the gems were polished and in perfect condition. The majority, however, were imperfect.

At the big Pricer Mound, near Bainbridge, another valuable find was made recently, when a ceremonial quartz spearhead, over 14 inches in length, was dug up. This is the largest spearhead ever found in Ohio. The valuable relic had been washed out of the mound onto the property of Mrs. Mary Wood. It is now in the possession of the State Archaeological Society.

A grand rush of mound openers is expected in this vicinity this spring and summer, due to the recent valuable finds.

SPORTS CHATTER

By BILL UNMACK
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

In these days when we have a record of ninety thousand people attending a world title boxing match at which only forty people attended. The money involved in this particular fight was $6,000 which was subscribed by the forty gentlemen who witnessed the contest.

The match in question was for the world middleweight title. Jack Dempsey—the Non Pareil—was the titleholder and he had been challenged by Jack Fogarty. The arrangements were that the bout was to be conducted in private for the $6,000 purse and only a selected list were allowed to subscribe and see the fight. The contest took place at the old Clarendon hotel in New York on February 3, 1886.

In those days there was the same antagonism against boxing from some quarters that we find today and this particular contest had aroused the anti-boxing fraternity to such an extent that the police were hot on the trail to stop the bout. For days the forty enthusiasts and the principals were busy dodging the police and the actual date of the fight was changed several times before the men eventually met at the Clarendon. Here we find a situation that present-day boxers would not stand for, the lack of a definite date and having to use secret tactics to hold a contest.

The fight was one of the hardest Non Pareil Dempsey ever undertook and in the eighth round Fogarty had Dempsey reeling and weak. The champion was in such a bad condition that in the ninth round Dempsey turned his back and actually ran away from Fogarty's attack. In the tenth Dempsey revived and from that on assumed the aggressive and the fight went to twenty-seven rounds when Fogarty was knocked out.

Fogarty, however, was full of fight and he went after Dempsey only to be floored a second time and then once again the defeated man came after the champion and again went down with a thud. This was after the twenty-seventh round had actually been officially declared finished and Fogarty had been counted out. In this final round Dempsey swung at Fogarty with his left and the latter ducked the wrong way. The blow took effect on the point of the jaw. It was not a hard blow but it landed in the vulnerable spot. All efforts of Fogarty to get up were useless and Fogarty's seconds threw the sponge in the ring. Fogarty got up as soon as he could stand and came to the center with the remark, "I am not half done fighting yet" and went after Dempsey. Twice he did this and twice he went down, but the referee had already awarded the fight to Dempsey.

Those were also the days when boxers did not have the comparatively heavy-padded gloves that are used today. In this fight the men used skin-tight gloves. Dempsey weighed in at 148 pounds and Fogarty tipped the beam at 142 pounds. The fight is undoubtedly the only one in history held for a world title at which only a handful of people attended. How different to a similar contest in those days and how different to the financial remuneration to what present-day boxers receive.

Siki's Title Restored By Boxing Federation

PARIS, Feb. 13.—Battling Siki, who was barred by the French boxing federation from appearing in the ring for nine months and deprived of the championship he won by defeating Georges Carpentier, was reinstated by the federation and his championship restored.

Siki's reinstatement came as a result of a general amnesty proclamation issued by the federation in celebration of its twentieth anniversary.

In addition to Siki, the general amnesty proclamation includes six other fighters and the Montmartre boxing club. The reinstatement of Siki resulted in the libel suits between the Senegalese boxer and the federation being withdrawn.

BENTON TO WEAR MARTYR'S CROWN

Moguls of National League
To Run Steam Roller
Over Southpaw

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Some time during the course of the annual schedule meeting of the National league at the Waldorf-Astoria today the official steam roller will be set in motion over the prostrate form of John (Rube) Benton and through the medium of a league vote or a decision by Judge Landis, the Cincinnati club and Garry Herrmann will be notified that they cannot do business with the left hander. That much is ordained, according to the good word that goes out from men close to the inner circle.

Rube Benton will not be allowed to pitch in the major leagues, or ever, they declare. If the case comes up for a showdown today, it is their contention that the National league owners, with few exceptions, will line up behind their President, John Heydler, and read Benton right out of the league.

Evidence of Guilt. In support of their claim they cite the following facts: That Herrmann has failed in his attempt to win support among his brother magnates; that additional information has been unearthed to indicate that Benton is a blameworthy individual, with particular reference to his charges of attempted bribery against Charley Herzog and his alleged guilty knowledge of the 1919 world series plot; that John McGraw, regardless of subsequent declarations, suspected Benton of unethical, if not illegal practices while he was a member of the Giant staff, and finally, that even Judge Landis has become convinced of Benton's "undesirability."

It is quite possible that, as far as the public is concerned, the case will be ignored and permitted to die a lingering and obscure death. This would be baseball's way of doing business in a matter that does not altogether reflect credit on the game and its sponsors.

The WORLD OVER

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

Charley White has been after the lightweight championship of the world for a matter of ten years and day by day in every way he seems to be getting further and further away from it. Charlie's aspirations for the title remind one of William J. Bryan's for the tenancy of the White House.

No boy ever in the boxing game had more chances to gain the title than White. He has had at least a dozen of them and failed to connect. At that he should have had the decision when he fought Freddie Welsh at Colorado Springs in 1916. The decision awarding the bout to Welsh was so unpopular that the referee was bombarded with cushions by the crowd and had to have a police escort to get him out of the arena.

San Francisco which, for a time, was the mecca for all the top notchers in the wrestling game, now is deserted save for a few of the ham and egg class of performers. The result has been that recent matches have drawn such poor crowds that the gate has barely paid for the overhead expenses. All of which goes to prove that the public wants first class entertainment and is willing to pay for it, but poor performances are dear no matter how low the price.

Siki Anxious to Meet Greb

Championship

By FREDERICK K. ABBOTT
For International News Service

PARIS, Feb. 13.—With the ban against him lifted by the international boxing federation, and hoping for an early restoration of his title, Battling Siki intends to go to America early in April in quest of bouts with Harry Greb and other leading light heavyweights, the writer was informed today in an exclusive interview with Charles Brouilhet, manager of the Senegalese.

M. Brouilhet also declared he would make application for the restoration of Siki's license to box today and would have his battle begin training for his engagement with Mike McTigue in Dublin, March 17.

"Siki is at present in Czechoslovakia, having fought an exhibition bout at Prague yesterday," M. Brouilhet stated. "He will return to Paris on the sixteenth, but I telegraphed him the good news yesterday. I am not awaiting his return, but, in my capacity as his manager, I will file an application with the federation this afternoon for the restoration of his boxing license."

"Want Bout With Greb. We will go to Dublin for the March 17 bout, then return to France and leave for America about the first week in April. Our plans here are still indefinite. We hope, however, to get a bout with Harry Greb with the world's light heavyweight title at stake, but I understand that Siki probably will have to meet Happy Littleton or some fighter of lesser note before meeting Greb. It goes without saying that we would like a crack at Dempsey's title, if possible."

"I would also like to say," he added, "that if the winner of the French boxing tournament challenges Siki, he will gladly fight him. Otherwise, the matter will not appear in a Paris ring until after his American tour. A return bout with Carpenter will then be arranged, probably for July 14."

The reinstatement of Siki will result in another Carpentier-Siki bout until after Georges has met Joe Beckett, the British champion, in May, according to Francois Deschamps, manager of Carpentier.

THEATRES

The GLENDALE

The T. D. & L.

Delight is being expressed everywhere over the happy news that J. Hartley Manners' great stage play, "Peg o' My Heart," has been made into a film by Metro, under the direction of King Vidor, with Laurette Taylor, wife of the dramatist, in the original title role she carried to such world success on the stage. This great picture is now showing at the Glendale theatre with unprecedented success.

Miss Taylor's "Peg" is a decided screen contribution and all lovers of this story and star should avail themselves of the opportunity now offered to see both.

"Peg" lives on the screen just as truly as she lived on the stage, in the opinion of many critics even more so. It is not a picture to miss.

When they begin to talk of erecting a "monument to baseball" the door seems to be thrown open to the erection of memorials to anything and everything. Just why it is necessary to set up a memorial for a game that is so much alive and kicking is not stated but, at first blush, it would seem that there would be some difficulty in getting contributions from the public for such an undertaking which seems rather senseless.

Certainly the town of Tijuana in Mexico has enough sins to account for and perhaps it is a just retribution that the Dempsey-Willard match should be foisted onto it. But before they continue the chatter about this event it might be well to wait and see how the former champion fares in his bout against Johnson next May. If Willard can't dispose of Johnson in comparatively impressive fashion all talk of a match against Dempsey ought to be sidetracked for all time.

Revision and codification of the golf rules in simple form is all right as far as it goes, but how are you going to make the duffers read them. The trouble at the present time is that novices do not take the trouble to read the rules of the game and simplifying them will hardly be an urge to reading them.

IRISH HOPE FOR END OF WARFARE

President of Parliament Is Holding Conferences in British Capital

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service

LONDON, Feb. 13.—The door to Irish peace is not completely closed, but is described as "swinging on one hinge."

President William T. Cosgrave, of the Irish Dail Eireann, is still in this city conferring with British officials on the general Irish situation.

Irish Free State officials had not given up hope of a peace agreement despite the refusal of Liam Lynch to accept the peace proposals of Liam Deasy of the republican irregular army.

Lynch is one of the most powerful figures in the republican movement. It was reported that Eamonn de Valera was preparing a public announcement supporting the stand taken by Lynch.

Members of the Cosgrave party in London said that large numbers of the republican irregulars had tired of warfare and chaos, and were giving up their arms "by the hundreds." They admitted, however, that the situation in the interior is still very bad.

Deasy is a prisoner in the hands of the Free State. He issued his public letter appealing to the republicans to give up their arms and make peace from his cell. It is understood that he is to be reprieved.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 13.—The senate late yesterday afternoon adopted a resolution appropriating $12,000,000 for the payment of the claim of Norway against the United States for ships seized by this government during the war. The resolution has already passed the house.

Indiana Solons Pass State Soldier Bonus

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 13.—The house of representatives of the Indiana assembly passed the state soldiers' bonus bill providing compensation of ten dollars for each month spent in service by world war and Spanish-American war veterans. The vote was 79 to 14. The bill provides for a referendum at the next general election and payment would not begin until 1926.

Gunmen Caught After Battle With Officers

WATROUS, N. M., Feb. 13.—Four alleged bandits and gunmen were brought here for preliminary hearing, after being captured in a spectacular running battle in the streets of Wagon Mound with peace officers of that city.

The men are charged with being responsible for a series of robberies at Springer and Watrous, N. M., and several towns in Southern Colorado.

The men were heavily armed with automatics and Winchester rifles. They gave their names as Lester Gates, Walla Walla, Wash., Leo Davis, Los Angeles, William Pappas, Montana, and Homer Lowe, Denver.

Test Vote on Subsidy Fails as Senate Quits

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The senate adjourned late yesterday with the legislative jam, involving the ship subsidy bill and the British debt agreement, still more complicated.

Senator Norris paved the way for a test vote on the subsidy by moving to supplant consideration of the shipping bill with his resolution to have congress take office on January 1, instead of March 4. Owing to absentees, however, no vote on the Norris resolution was taken.

A tax called chimney money was levied on each hearth in a house in the reign of Charles II.

SOLO TELLS OF CONGRESS' TASKS

Lineberger Reviews Amount Of Legislation Facing Present Session

A. T. Cowan, publisher of The Glendale Evening News, is in receipt of the following communication from Walter F. Lineberger, congressman from the district of which Glendale is a part: "My Dear Mr. Cowan: The department of agriculture has advised me that several packages of Peruvian Alfalfa, Feterita, Soybeans and Sudan grass seed are available for experimental purposes by those who are particularly interested in demonstrating the usefulness of these crops. If any of your readers desire to test any one or all of these, I will be glad to have them communicate with me so that I may take the matter up with the department and see that it is sent them. The department will keep in touch with the experimenter, requesting periodical reports, and will assist in every way possible with the work.

The appropriation for seed has been omitted from the agricultural appropriation bill this year, so seed will not be available for distribution next winter. However, there is now on hand an assortment of vegetable as well as flower seed for the individual gardeners, also the year books and other pamphlets issued by the department, which I will be glad to send to any one making a request therefor.

Rush Legislation

The supply bills necessary for the maintenance of government functions are demanding practically all of the time of the members just now, and very little new legislation is under consideration. Matters which have passed the house are receiving attention by the senate, and vice versa, so that as much of it as possible may be completed before the end of the session.

The Bureau-Fuller bill, granting an increase of pension to civil war veterans and their widows, which was recently vetoed by the president, has been re-introduced in simplified form, and many of the members hope to see it enacted into law before March 4.

Much as it is needed in some of the western states, it is doubtful if the reapportionment bill will be reported out and enacted. California is justly entitled to an increase in representation, but for a number of reasons there has been considerable opposition to a measure of this kind. I anticipate that it will be passed early in the next session, however, and before the next general election.

Rivers and Harbors

Among public documents available for the ninth district are agricultural conference reports, reports of the joint agricultural committee, reports of the secretaries of the various departments and bureaus, copies of the four messages to congress delivered by the president, and copies of the conference documents including the address of the president and Secretary Hughes at the opening of the conference of the limitation of armaments, as well as various other publications too numerous to mention. Should you or any of your readers desire these publications and will write to me specifying the particular ones in which they are interested, it will be a pleasure to forward them as long as the supply lasts.

One particular piece of legislation in which I am greatly interested is the appropriation making possible the further development of rivers and harbors. This item is included in the army appropriation bill. No specific sum is appropriated for any particular locality, but the board of army engineers and the funds appropriated according to the needs of the project, and California will be given her proportionate share.

This should materially assist in developing the Los Angeles Long Beach harbor, although that program will of necessity extend over a number of years, and will require additional appropriations as the work progresses.

Government Buildings

Many members feel that a comprehensive program for government ownership of buildings used for government work, all over the country, should be started at the earliest possible date, and the committee having charge of this work is preparing to report out such a bill, but the administration feels that the time is not yet ripe to begin this.

The president has stated, however, that he hopes it will be practicable to start this program during his administration, and realizing the great difficulties under which many of the departments are working here in Washington, as well as all over the country, I also sincerely hope this will be possible.

Members of congress will welcome the access ahead of them, for they feel a closer touch with their constituents, and a personal interchange of ideas which has not been practicable to any great extent for the last few years, will be mutually helpful. I assure you that for myself I will heartily welcome the opportunity to get back to California.

With kind regards, I am,
Very truly yours,
WALTER F. LINEBERGER.

Approve Resolution to Amend Constitution

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—A constitutional amendment providing for the convening of congress in January after an election, instead of in the following December as at present, was approved by the senate today in adopting a resolution introduced by Senator George W. Norris, Republican, of Nebraska.

HUNT ABDUCTORS OF CATHOLIC NUN

Maryland Police in Search For Pair Who Drugged Woman in Convent

FREDERICK, Md., Feb. 13.—Police lines were thrown out over Maryland and bordering states today for the mysterious couple that drugged and kidnaped Sister Cecilia of Notre Dame convent of St. John's Catholic church here yesterday.

From a disconnected story told by the nun, still suffering from the shock of her experience today, the authorities think she was chloroformed by a man and a woman, foreigners, at the convent, spirited to Baltimore, and held for a time in a deserted hut. While the kidnapers quarreled, Sister Cecilia, in private life Miss Marie Whalen, escaped, and wandered about the streets of Baltimore until found by a policeman who sent her back to the convent in a taxicab. The nun said she heard the man and woman discussing the amount of the ransom they would demand for her safe return to the convent.

Signs of Struggle

While giving a music lesson at the convent, Sister Cecilia was disturbed by a man and woman she said were watching her through a window.

Rev. William J. Kane, pastor of St. John's church, expressed belief the kidnapers were connected with the Italian Mafia.

An examination of the room from which the nun was kidnaped disclosed evidences of a struggle. Beads from her rosary were scattered on the floor. The odor of chloroform was detected and a wad of cotton saturated with the drug was found on the table.

Sister Cecilia was suffering from a severe wound on the head and nervous shock. The nun had been at Notre Dame convent for several months.

U. S. Ships Excluded From Turkish Orders

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The United States government has not been advised of a new Turkish order for the withdrawal of foreign warships from the Smyrna harbor, it was announced officially at the state department.

Rear Admiral Mark Bristol, the American high commissioner, has returned to his post at Constantinople after attending the Lausanne conference, but has not reported any additional move by the Turks to drive away the allied gunboats.

In the absence of official advice, government officials expressed renewed confidence that American vessels in Turkish waters were not included in the Turkish ultimatum.

Hold Bodies for Order Of Relatives in Ohio

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13.—The bodies of Mrs. Lela Cooney and her husband were being held at a local undertaking establishment today awaiting word from relatives in Dalton, Ohio, as to disposition of the bodies, following a double tragedy Saturday when Mrs. Cooney shot and killed her husband and then took her own life.

Police have accepted the explanation of the double killing as offered by neighbors to their south Carondelet apartment that the couple had engaged in a ten day quarrel prior to the shooting, though no reason for their disagreement could be learned.

U. S. UNABLE TO TRY ROSENBLUTH

Ruling of Commissioner Says Federal Courts Are Powerless to Act

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—A ruling that the federal courts have no jurisdiction in the case of former Captain Robert Rosenbluth, under indictment for the murder of Major William Cronkhite, was handed down today by United States Commissioner Hitchcock here.

The decision apparently marks the end of a legal tangle which began with the death of Cronkhite in camp near Seattle, Washington, in 1918.

Rosenbluth was cleared by a military court of complicity in the shooting but federal officials, after an investigation, declared he was liable to prosecution.

The Washington prosecutor dismissed the case against Rosenbluth for lack of evidence.

In October, 1921, a few months before impeachment proceedings against the federal attorney came to a head in Washington, the district attorney here re-opened the case and secured an indictment against Rosenbluth from a federal grand jury. He has been at liberty under bail.

Deportation Order to Be Mexican's Sentence

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13.—Banishment from the United States rather than a prison sentence, is expected to be the penalty Ramon Armiento must suffer for an assault upon a policeman. A motion that Armiento be deported from this country is under consideration by Superior Judge Willis and is expected to be acted upon next Thursday.

Armiento was convicted by a jury of technical assault when he pointed a revolver at an officer. He did not go so far as to fire the gun and allowed the policeman to

Better Method Urged To Feed Wyoming Elk

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Feb. 13.—The state of Wyoming is all wrong, or nearly so, in its system of feeding wild elk in the famous Jackson Hole country, according to Representative W. C. Deloney, of Lincoln county, who desires the appointment of a legislative committee to go to the elk country and look into the matter.

Deloney's legislative hobby is game protection. He lives in the heart of the big-game region. He believes that the state's feeding designed to tide the elk herds over periods when natural forage is too deeply covered with snow to be accessible, is not begun until it is too late to save many of the elk. By the time the state begins providing hay for the elk, he stated in an illuminating speech to the house, many of them are too far gone from starvation to be saved by the delayed aid; so weak from hunger that they fall easy prey to coyotes and other predatory enemies. He believes that a study should be made of the feeding problem and a system adopted whereunder feeding would begin in ample time and be continued until spring is sufficiently advanced for the elk to subsist without assistance.

The present feeding system, Representative Deloney stated, not only results in the loss of great numbers of elk that should be saved, but in loss to the ranchmen of the Jackson Hole country. The elk, driven to desperation by hunger, raid the ranches and consume large quantities of hay stored by stockmen for the consumption of domestic stock. If state feeding were begun in proper time, he pointed out, these desperate raids would not take place.

No action was taken on Representative Deloney's proposition on an investigating committee, but he will bring the matter up again later.

Handkerchief in Coat Sign for Bootleggers

PORT HURON, Mich., Feb. 13.—All that is necessary to get a drink in Port Huron or Sarnia, Ont., just across the border, is to display a white handkerchief protruding from the coat pocket when on the street, a bootlegger told Judge Clare B. Black. A moonshine vendor will appear promptly and ask whether it is a pint or a quart the thirsty one wants, the court was told.

Crowds you see arguing on street corners are not discussing Europe. They are deciding how to get across the street.

British Will Enlarge Main Aerial Terminal

LONDON, Feb. 13.—A scheme for enlarging Croydon Airdrome, the English starting point and terminus for transcontinental air traffic, is now being constructed by the Director of Civil Aviation, General Sir Sefton Branner.

The volume of air traffic between London and the continent in 1922 was nearly three times as great as that of 1921, and it was found that the existing air station arrangements were inadequate.

Additional ground will be taken over and built upon, and the new scheme provides for separate arrival and departure platforms for the main air lines and the doubling of present landing space.

Larger offices, customs depots and waiting rooms will be grouped around the platforms, while dominating the whole will be a huge wireless tower to supply latest weather and atmospheric reports.

Married to Two Men, Would Divorce Both

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Feb. 13.—For the first time in the history of the local courts a woman has started action to be divorced from two legally wedded husbands. The woman who is asking the court to rid her of both of them is Mrs. Lillie Kocher, of this place.

According to the story which she told the court, she first married William Kocher, whose name she uses, in January, 1895. Eight years later, she says, he deserted her and that for the next six years she did not hear from him. Believing him dead, she then married George Gaston. In 1917 she received reliable information her former husband was living. She then separated from Gaston. Since that time they have not lived together. Now Mrs. Kocher wants to be legally freed of her marriage to both of them.

Dragnet Is Spread for Assailants of Woman

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13.—Police today sought the driver of a jitney and two male passengers who beat up and assaulted Mrs. Emma Nolan, hotel maid. Mrs. Nolan hailed the jitney on Mission street without noticing there were no other women passengers. The jitney sped out Mission street, and as she struggled to leap from the car her screams were stifled and she was beaten almost unconscious. Near the Seven Mile house she was thrown from the car.

DETHRONE HUBBY AS FAMILY HEAD

British Court Backs Wife in Refusal to Admit Man's Authority

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service
LONDON, Feb. 13.—The British divorce judges have just dealt a severe blow to the idea of the "patriarchal family." It practically means that the Englishman's medieval boast that "he is king of his castle" no longer holds good.

The ordinary Englishman accepted the fact of woman's emancipation with reluctant good grace, but he accepted it. He had to. But there are certain persons enjoying British citizenship whom such changes hit hard, especially those of eastern origin. Such was Rudolph Prohaska, of Highgate.

Rudolph's wife, Mari Francisca Prohaska, hailed the husband before the magistrate and obtained a separation order against him on the ground of his persistent cruelty. It was not suggested that Rudolph beat his wife. Her health had merely suffered from what she termed his "domestic tyranny."

Appeals Case

Rudolph was not satisfied with the lower court's decision, so he took the matter before the high court divorce judges and there plaintively explained the wreckage of his home life.

"An act of God or nature, put an impediment in my married life," said Rudolph to the judges. "My wife had the misfortune to lose her father when she was very young and that gravely handicapped her as a fitting wife for a man. Such women have not the fatherly influence to impress upon them their own subordination to mankind."

"My wife was brought up exclusively by her mother, together with a horde of brothers, and the females of the house ruled the males. She was wrongly trained. In our state of society we have the 'patriarchal family.'"

"But owing to my wife's unfortunate upbringing her mental attitude was such that she was not in the slightest degree influenced by my wishes. My wife was unable to comprehend my suggestions that I was master of the house."

"My wife left me not for the cause of ill-treatment. We parted on the best of terms. She left me as a consequence of automatic or some feminine intuition which told her that there was a state of affairs for which a safe end could not be foreseen—that is to say, we were going from bad to worse."

But the judges thought otherwise. They had heard the statement of Rudolph; they had noted his demeanor; they had realized his views on domesticity; moreover, they had read the depositions before the magistrates. So they decided the wife had suffered mentally from his persistent cruelty and the separation order of the magistrates must stand.

Flappers Missing in Japan, Visitor Says

HONOLULU, Feb. 13.—"There is no such thing as flapperism in Japan as yet, although the young girls of the Island Empire are peculiarly near to it," says Dr. A. L. Dean, president of the University of Hawaii, who recently returned from an extended trip to Japan.

"Flappers of the American variety are not seen in Japan," he declared. "But nevertheless the younger set of Japan is shocking its elders as much as the youngsters of America are shocking theirs; for the girls are commencing to dine out with men friends and go to dances with them. They usually dance the fox trot or one-step, and they wear their Japanese sandals while doing so."

SHE STEALS BECAUSE OF LOVE Seeks To Give Evidence For Divorce Case

Eve Bernard, 19.

Eve Bernard, 19, and pretty, of Chicago, was arrested there, charged with stealing a $60 dress in a loop department store. She confessed the theft in a remarkable story, in which she said she stole and permitted herself to be captured to furnish her husband, E. F. Barnard, with grounds for divorce, that he might marry another woman. She said they had tried to secure a divorce, but lawyers told them they had no grounds. "So," she said, "I thought if I could get arrested and convicted he could get a divorce. I love him so much I cannot deny him anything."

ROBINSON-FERRY BOUT IS STAGED

Pictures of Singing Mayor's
Bout With 'Pete' Shown
In Store Window

A bout with the gloves is being staged between "Our Singing Mayor," Spencer Robinson, and "Pete" Ferry, at Roberts & Echols Drug store, today and every day, until further notice, on Broadway, just around the corner from the Brand boulevard branch of the Security Trust and Savings bank.

There is no special hour for their act, as the performance is continuous. Nor is there any likelihood of a casualty on either likelihood of a casualty on either leader Harold F. Benner, who acts as referee, is prepared for eventualities, and notwithstanding the cheers and yells to greater endeavor being put forth from the sidelines by Ralph Echols, "Tubby" Walcott, Floyd Craft and several other "good Scouts."

For the whole works is a tab-leau cut out of cardboard, mounted on a large photograph taken last summer at the Boy Scout camp on Catalina island. F. H. Roberts is responsible for the thing and he has certainly done an artistic job. The figures are large and lifelike, and stand on a sandy foundation with a background of stones and trees natural to a degree. The far background spreads a photographic panorama of the camp, also enlarged and mounted on cardboard.

The remarkable thing about the whole tableau is that the enlargements of from ten to twenty times normal, were without exception made from post-card size photos. They have been colored with oils until the effect is one of great realism.

Too much credit cannot be given to Mr. Roberts for this fine work he has done on behalf of the Scouts. The work, off and on, has taken him months to accomplish.

Germans Mourn Death Of Famous Horseman

BERLIN, Feb. 13.—German racing men are mourning the death of G. Johnson, dean of German trainers, who, in a fit of despondency, committed suicide by shooting himself with a revolver. Johnson, who was 73 years old, celebrated his 50th anniversary as a trainer last year. For years before the war he had been the dean of German trainers. Impulse, trained by him, won the German Derby in 1895; Trollhetta, in 1896, and Tuki, in 1901. He had managed the stables of Prince von Winkler, Count Henckel and Baron von Falkenhansen.

Belgian Lines Being Extended in Germany

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 13.—Belgian troops are extending their occupation of German territory in the direction of the Dutch frontier, said a dispatch from Aix-la-Chapelle today. They have occupied Emmenich and Weert, taking over the customs offices in both towns. Aix-la-Chapelle is headquarters of the Belgian army of occupation.

This European trouble is caused by all the countries being entirely too close to each other.

REALTORS START IN PARTNERSHIP

Twining & Myers to Handle
Local Subdivision on Important Scale

W. L. Twining and L. H. Myers today are announcing their partnership in the real estate business in Glendale at 211 1/2 South Brand boulevard. Twining & Myers will be the firm name and while they will deal in general real estate listings, it is their intention to enter the local subdivision game on a large scale.

Mr. Twining is well-known as a resident of Glendale, being chairman of the Chamber of Commerce advertising committee, and the new firm already has established itself as a member of the Glendale Realty board. For nearly nine years he was manager of the F. P. Newport company of Los Angeles, developers of Verdugo Woodlands, and for twenty-five years prior to that he was manager of the suburban department of E. A. Cummings & Co., Chicago.

Mr. Myers has had sixteen years experience in subdivision work, starting with his father in the development of the Florence avenue district of Los Angeles, and for the last eight years working as

Mr. Twining's assistant in the Newport company, both at the harbor and in Glendale. He served in the military intelligence division of the army during the war and upon his return married and moved to Glendale, where he resides at 123 Camulos avenue.

Glendale Boosters

Both members of the firm are good boosters for Glendale, having directed thousands of home-seekers this way in the course of their experience, and they know values here. A large personal clientele gives their office a good start and announcement has been delayed only by lack of a telephone. Their number is Glendale 3011.

Mr. Twining this morning said: "If we didn't believe thoroughly in the future of Glendale we would not have started in business here after the experience we have had. We expect to see the population of this city double in the next few years, and we will do our share to make it possible."

Wind Halts Leap From Train to Flying Plane

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 13.—Efforts of a "daredevil" to leap from the top of the speeding New York-New Orleans Limited, near Palmetto, went for nothing when a "tall wind" prevented the aviator from throttling down enough to permit the rope ladder coming in reach of the man on the top of the train.

Two trains running side by side, two airplanes flying low and Bonnie Rowe, dancing a highland fling and several other dance steps, on the top of the mail train, gave hundreds of people a thrill, even though he didn't make the contemplated flying leap into the plane as scheduled.

A special train, made up in Atlanta, went to Palmetto and took the left-hand track running toward this city. When the Limited whistled the special train got under way, and when the crack train came into view it was followed by two airplanes.

One of these was piloted by Lieutenant A. B. McMullin and the other by "Doug" Davis. On the wings of one of the planes Miss Mabel Cody skipped around, keeping warm, she said, while she waited for Rowe to grab the hanging rope ladder.

Three attempts were made to pick up Rowe, on by Rowe to pick up the plane, depending on the point of view, before the special train was forced to slow down for College Park, where the double train ends.

The whole experiment lasted not more than twenty minutes, but each second was a thriller.

Most of the passengers on the special train rode on the coal tenders, where they could get a good view of the attempted leaps.

First Skyscraper Is Completed in Berlin

BERLIN, Feb. 12.—The first "skyscraper" in Berlin—an eight-story structure—has just been completed. The new building, which is called "a gigantic structure" by the newspapers, is now pointed out as a "new architectural type."

Most Berlin buildings are not more than five stories high.

Vanta Abdominal Binder

—The Vanta Abdominal Binder is baby's first garment. It serves to hold the navel dressing in place and is much superior to the old-fashioned, inelastic flannel binder. The Vanta Binder is made of firmly, smoothly knitted material, which gives just the support necessary while it yields to abdominal expansion and contracts again as the abdominal walls recede. It goes twice around the baby's abdomen and is wide enough to stay in place. Vanta Binders are made in three grades—cotton, fine wool mixed with a small amount of cotton and silk and wool.
